

MARRIED.
FOSTER-ADAMS
The marriage of Albert Foster, son of Mr. and Mrs. John Q. Foster, and Miss Sylvia Adams, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Adams, occurred Wednesday afternoon at 2 o'clock at the home of Oscar S. Brooke in Brownstown. The Rev. W. E. Payne officiated. After the ceremony Mr. and Mrs. Foster came to Seymour where a supper was given for them at the home of the bride's parents on west Tipton street. They will reside in Seymour for a short time when they will probably go to Danville. Those attending the wedding from here were Misses Josephine Foster and Grace Carter and Allen C. Foster.

MASCHER-KRAMER.
Mr. and Mrs. George Mascher and family went to Indianapolis Wednesday afternoon to attend the marriage of his brother, Charles Mascher, and Miss Lena Kramer, which was to occur there some time today. His sister, Mrs. John Alberring, and daughter, Miss Thelma, went to Indianapolis this morning to be present at the ceremony. The groom formerly lived here but has traveled a great deal in late years and recently has been located in New York. The bride is a daughter of Mrs. Sophia Kramer and formerly resided in this city. Their many friends here extend congratulations. They will make their future home in Indianapolis.

LANGE-ACKER.
Herman Lange and Mrs. Lena Acker were married Wednesday evening at eight o'clock, at the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Herman Holman, on N. Bill street. The ceremony was performed by the Rev. Eggers, pastor of the German Lutheran church. The groom is an employee of the Seymour Manufacturing Company and for some time has been making his home with Mr. and Mrs. George Bohnenkamp on N. Bill street. They will continue to reside in this city.

Thanksgiving Observed.
Thanksgiving is being properly observed throughout the city today. The merchants closed their stores at noon, in accordance with the regular Thanksgiving custom. The banks are closed for the day and many of the factories closed down last night until Friday morning. There will be a number of family reunions today in the city and county and a large number of people are visiting out of the city. Special arrangements were made by the charitable associations to provide the poor with Thanksgiving supplies and many homes were made happy this morning when the big baskets filled with all sorts of good things arrived.

Thirty-One Years Ago.
Mrs. John Owens calls our attention to the fact that thirty-one years ago today, or on Thanksgiving Day in 1878, there was a snow on the ground that in many places was from thirty to thirty-six inches deep.

A THANKSGIVING PRAYER

CLORINDA, in the meeting house
The worthy parson prays,
And goodly thanks he gives for these
Most prosperous of days.
Your stately parents on their ways
Besought you not to stay,
But hasten with your meed of praise
On this Thanksgiving day.

Clorinda, oh, I watch you go
In flowered satin dressed;
You wear my heart upon your sleeve
That all the town may jest,
And when you kneel among the rest
Give thanks for this, I say:
You've not the grief that tears my breast
On this Thanksgiving day.

Clorinda of the rose red lips
That laugh me into scorn,
Must I alone mid happy folk
Be saddest of men born?
Ah, give me, sweet, this gracious morn
The word I needs must pray,
And grant unto a swain forlorn
A real Thanksgiving day.
—Theodosia Garrison.

Masque Party.

The school entertainment and festival held in the Cortland K. of P. hall Wednesday evening was a decided success. Several hundred people were present. Many were masked and strikingly costumed. The literary part of the program was well received and the quartet headed by Dr. Richards was repeatedly encored.

The fish pond, lunch counter and fortune-telling booths were well patronized.

The prizes offered for the most interesting costumes were won by John Hays, of Cortland, dressed as "Happy Hooligan," and Miss Hazel Collins, of Seymour, as an Indian Maiden.

"Mandy Green."

"Mandy Green" will spend Thanksgiving in Seymour. She will be accompanied by a band, and will appear at the Majestic Theatre this evening. The company is a strong one and a good play will be presented. It is a comedy drama and will please the audience. A parade will be given at noon.

Mr. and Mrs. Albert Mains of Denver, are visiting relatives here.

Will Continue Work.

One contractor at Scottsburg, who is interested in the building of one or more gravel roads, stated to the REPUBLICAN Monday that he was not seriously scared at the recent gravel road decision of the supreme court and at least some of their work would be pushed to completion without any considerable delay and consequent disadvantage to the public. It is not a very good time for road work to be tied up in most localities.

Thanksgiving Service.

The annual Thanksgiving service will be held this evening at 7:30 o'clock at the First M. E. church. The Rev. F. M. Huckleberry will make the address. Fruit Shower.

The members of the Central Christian church gave a fruit shower Wednesday evening for their pastor, Rev. L. A. Winn, and wife. They went out to his home on N. Ewing street and took with them between seven and eight dozen cans of fruit, besides apples, potatoes, jellies, two or three sacks of flour, and other edibles. About thirty were present and spent an hour or two very pleasantly at the pastor's home. Some of the members went out about eight o'clock and a message was sent to Rev. Winn, who was then at prayer meeting, that he was wanted at home. He and Mrs. Winn were both taken by surprise and appreciate very much the friendly feeling among the active members of the church in remembering them so graciously. He has been pastor of the church here now almost a year and during the time has won the affections of the members of his congregation. The family has been unfortunate in the way of sickness during the year but they have been very patient and Rev. Winn is to be congratulated on the good work he has been able to accomplish under the circumstances. He is a man who is always active for what is best for the city in a moral way and he takes a very great interest in the welfare of our citizens generally. May Thanksgiving Day be an enjoyable one to him and his family.

Schools Closed.

Following their usual custom the public schools closed yesterday and will not open again until Monday morning. The pupils have attended several months without a vacation and were glad to get a few days away from the school room.

"I had a mishap at the age of 41, which left me in bad fix," writes Mrs. Georgia Usher, of Conyers, Ga. "I was unconscious for three days, and after that I would have fainting spells, dizziness, nervousness, sick headache, heart palpitation and many strange feelings. "I suffered greatly with ailments due to the change of life and had 3 doctors, but they did no good, so I concluded to try Cardui. "Since taking Cardui, I am so much better and can do all my housework."

Take CARDUI

The Woman's Tonic

Do not allow yourself to get into a bad fix. You might get in so bad you would find it hard to get out. Better take Cardui while there is time, while you are still in moderately good health, just to conserve your strength and keep you in tip top condition. In this way your troubles, whatever they are, will gradually grow smaller instead of larger—you will be on the up-grade instead of the down—and by and bye you will arrive at the north pole of perfect health. OWES HER LIFE TO

Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

Vienna, W. Va. — "I feel that I owe the last ten years of my life to Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. Eleven years ago I was a walking shadow. I had been under the doctor's care but got no relief. My husband persuaded me to try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and it worked like a charm. It relieved all my pains and misery. I advise all suffering women to take Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound." — Mrs. EMMA WHEATON, Vienna, W. Va.

Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, made from native roots and herbs, contains no narcotics or harmful drugs, and to-day holds the record for the largest number of actual cures of female diseases of any similar medicine in the country, and thousands of voluntary testimonials are on file in the Pinkham laboratory at Lynn, Mass., from women who have been cured from almost every form of female complaints, inflammation, ulceration, displacements, fibroid tumors, irregularities, periodic pains, backache, indigestion and nervous prostration. Every such suffering woman owes it to herself to give Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound a trial.

If you would like special advice about your case write a confidential letter to Mrs. Pinkham, at Lynn, Mass. Her advice is free, and always helpful.

THURSDAY, NOVEMBER 25, 1909

AGAIN time-honored Thanksgiving Day is at hand. Surely the American people need not think hard to recall reasons for gratitude to God for his guardianship over our nation. As a country we have been spared from disaster. The clouds of business depression which lowered a year ago have rolled away, and a new era of prosperity has dawned. We are at peace with ourselves and with all nations. Even within the past month the President's trip has shown that sectional differences, except such as may be called natural, do not exist. Each year brings reasons for thankfulness, but this year has seemed filled with such causes. The Stars and Stripes have seemed to flash brighter than ever among the standards of the world, and American influence has been broadened. The day is set apart for a purpose. The proclamations of the President and Governor are not meaningless and should be obeyed by every good citizen. The American people should make this a Thanksgiving day in spirit and truth as well as in name.

MRS. BELMONT GIVES ADVICE TO WOMEN

The First Steps In the Suffragist Movement.

New York, Nov. 23.—At the annual luncheon of the National Society of Ohio Women at the Waldorf, Mrs. O. H. P. Belmont appeared and instructed the seventy women present in the first principles of woman suffrage. They asked questions and she gave the answers.

"Mrs. Belmont read a paper about the aims of suffrage," said Mrs. Henry L. Easton, president of the club, after the luncheon, "and then she said she was ready to answer any questions. I asked her what a conservative club like ours could do for suffrage, and she replied that we could house-clean the city; that we could do for the city what we would do for our homes."

"I asked whether if woman got the vote, uneducated and untrained women would not outnumber the educated ones at the polls, and Mrs. Belmont said this would not matter, because women are always a conservative element. They would vote to protect the interests of the home and family, she said."

"Mrs. Belmont said that it was the instinct of women to protect their own; that instead of three beer saloons in the block the number might be made to come down to one, and so the husband would have smaller chance of getting a drink."

Fairly Warned.

The meek and lowly drug clerk had just proposed to the fair debutante who presided over the soda fountain.

"Fare away," murmured the fair fizz water dispenser. "No wedding bells for you and the undersigned."

"You love another?" he queried.

"S'pose I do," she retorted. "What's it to you, little boy?"

"Oh, nothing," he said. "But you are making the mistake of your life in turning me down and allowing them to fool you with 'something just as good.'"—Chicago News.

NO NEED TO CALL A SPECIAL SESSION

Legislature Can Do Nothing In Indiana Road Case.

Indianapolis, Nov. 24.—In reply to a gravel road contractor whose work on a public highway in the eastern part of the state has been stopped by a decision of the supreme court declaring the township tax levy law for free gravel roads unconstitutional, Governor Marshall has declared that no special session of the general assembly will be called to take up the question.

"If the law is unconstitutional," wrote the governor, "no general assembly has the power to make it constitutional, and it would be a needless expenditure of time and money to call the members together."

A number of requests and suggestions have been received by the governor for such a special session since the court decision was handed down. Chiefly interested are contractors who were engaged in the work of free gravel road construction when the law was declared unconstitutional, residents of country districts in which roads were in process of construction and prospective bond buyers.

It has been fairly well established that bond issued under contracts completed prior to the court decision will not be invalidated by the court decision, and talk of bringing suit in some instances in order to test the application to the decision to past bond issues has died down.

Blonde "Works" Business Men.

Elgin, Ill., Nov. 24.—A pretty blonde purporting to represent the Chicago Industrial Home for children, located at Woodstock, swindled prominent business men of Elgin and other cities on the Fox river out of hundreds of dollars by systematic soliciting of dues in the past summer. The fraud has just been exposed, although the young woman has not been arrested.

Danville, Ind., Nov. 24.—Coroner Alfred has filed his verdict in the case of the killing at Plainfield, of John Boyce, a negro, by Alfred H. Pickett, in which he holds that Pickett was justified in the act.

Prison For Wife Deserter.

Greenfield, Ind., Nov. 24.—James Turner of this city was found guilty of wife desertion by a jury in the circuit court and was sentenced to serve an indeterminate term in the Michigan City penitentiary.

Farewell my friends,
a long farewell, I bid you one and all, for on this glad Thanksgiving Day, I hear the bugle call; I feel the chilly shivers running up and down my back, for never will I feast again; ah me, alas! Alack! All summer long I've wandered o'er the hill and in the vale, ne'er dreaming that the thread of life was woven so very frail, oblivious all of butchers and of dinner parties gay, where voices rise in praises on this glad Thanksgiving Day. How proudly have I held aloft my head in days gone by when I'd strut beside some puny bird less known to fame than I; how often in the barnyard have I pecked a rooster gay, because he felt important, sir, and got into my way. And when I'd filled my empty crop with the corn laid out for me, I'd feel as happy as a lord—as any king could be; and I'd stroll across the barnyard to some cool, secluded nook, or perhaps enjoy a pebble lunch by the swiftly running brook. I loved to bathe in Mother Earth and keep my feathers clean, for a turkey in his gaudy dress is proud as any queen; and when at night I roosted high, my head beneath my wing, I dreamed of little turkeys and the joy they yearly bring, to all their mamma turkeys and their papa turkeys too, and in their turn rear little ones to hatch their broods anew. But all my dreams are shattered now; life's hopes for me are dead, and ere you read this mournful rhyme my spirit will have fled to a happy clime where hungry men live on plainer food, and they, like turkeys, find delight in simply doing good. And so this rhyme comes to an end; it's down close to my tail. I beg your pardon, gentle sir, for this, my mournful wail; but while I wish you a happy Thanksgiving as you dine, most copious draughts of joy, just think a moment how you'd feel were I feasting on your boy.

THEY SEEK HELP

Representatives of Bituminous Coal Interests Call on the President.

Washington, Nov. 24.—Bituminous coal operators of Ohio, Pennsylvania, Kentucky, Indiana, Illinois and West Virginia, have combined in a request that railroads of the country shall be permitted to pool freight under supervision of the government and today representatives of the soft coal interests of all these states were granted an audience by President Taft for the purpose of laying the matter before him. President Taft was urged to make plain in his coming message the necessity for taking immediate action against car shortages and freight congestions such as are now throttling the coal men of the different states.

Good Cough Medicine for Children and Grown Folks, Too.

"We could hardly do without Chamberlain's Cough Remedy," says Mrs. Floria Despain, of Boyd, Ky. "I have found it to be so good for the croup and have used it for years. I can heartily recommend it for coughs, colds and croup in children and old folks, too." The above shows the explicit confidence that many mothers place in Chamberlain's Cough Remedy, a confidence based on many years' experience in the use of it. No one need hesitate to use this remedy for it contains no chloroform, opium or other narcotics and may be given to a child as confidently as to an adult. For sale by C. W. Milhous.

NOT SO, HE SAYS

Friend of Leonard Grace Brands Zelaya Statement as False.

Mobile, Ala., November 24.—Leon Schwartz of this city, a captain in the national guard and an officer in the Spanish American war, who went to Nicaragua for several years at the close of the war, knew well, while in Nicaragua, Leonard Grace, one of the two Americans executed by orders of President Zelaya. He brands as false statements made by Zelaya representing that Grace was an adventurer, and says he was then an industrious and hard working mine owner.

Eczema Readily Cured By a Simple Home Treatment.

A simple clean remedy that can be used in the home is what every person desires who is suffering from eczema. You can now have that remedy and get instant relief, and be cured permanently by ZEMO, a clean vegetable liquid for external use. ZEMO cures skin diseases by drawing the germs and their poisons, that cause the disease, to the surface of the skin and destroying them, leaving the skin clean and healthy. Mr. Pellens the druggist will give you a booklet and explain to you how a great many cases of eczema and other forms of skin diseases have been cured by this simple home treatment.

Will Sell Independently.

Evansville, Ind., Nov. 24.—Evansville tobacco manufacturers have received information that the Indiana counties of Perry, Spencer and Warrick, formerly interested in the pool with the tobacco growers in the Green river district in Kentucky, have withdrawn and say they will no longer pool with the Kentucky growers, but will sell independently.

Mr. Pellens is pleased to announce that he will continue the agency for ZEMO, the best known remedy for eczema, pimples, dandruff, ring worm, prickly heat, tetter, hives, or any other form of skin or scalp disease. Last year Zemo made some remarkable cures of chronic cases of skin diseases; and Mr. Pellens says ZEMO gives the best results of any remedy he has ever sold for the prompt relief and positive cure of any form of skin or scalp disease. ZEMO is a clean vegetable liquid for external use, pleasant and agreeable to use. Can be used freely on infants.

THE THANKSGIVING BASKET

BOB placed the big basket between his feet on the floor and looked out of the window of the train.

In Bob's basket was a big Thanksgiving turkey, a surprise for the folks at home. There was no turkey in the basket which a man who sat next to Bob placed on the floor between his feet. What was in it Bob discovered when he undertook to surprise the folks at home. He surprised them all right enough, but he surprised himself also, for he found that he and the man had somehow changed baskets and that instead of a turkey he had brought home a bottle attached to a fine boy baby.

Dire was Bob's disappointment, for the turkey his mother in his absence had provided was far inferior to the one he had unwittingly exchanged for the baby.

Bob's mother took the baby to her arms and her heart, and, to her credit be it said, she did so before she ascertained that the clothing and ornaments of the little stranger indicated that it was a baby of distinction.

"One of the Four Hundred," she said to her husband.

"No doubt the four hundred and first," he laughed, in spite of having just lost his job.

Next morning, however—Thanksgiving morning—his face wore a different expression. Grave determination shone from his eyes.

"I must be off at once," he said to his wife, "to look for another job."

"On a holiday!" she exclaimed.

"The sooner the better," said he, and he scarcely more than skimmed his newspaper except the columns of "Help Wanted—Males."

"Nothing there," he observed, with a sigh. "Never mind, mother; there's something somewhere, and I'll find it."

Scarcely had he gone when Bob picked up the paper and in a moment more gave a shout.

"There! You've waked the new baby," said his mother, hurrying to the rescue.

"Listen to this! It's the very baby, I do believe."

It was a short dispatch from Mayville, sent out late the previous night, to the effect that Mr. Ray's son and heir was missing with his nurse, and great fears were entertained that the child had been stolen and was being held for ransom.

Then came a knock on the hall door which checked Bob in a war dance. He opened it and was almost brushed down by the man of the railway cars, who was standing there with a big basket on his arm and who dashed into the room like a wild man.

"Here's your wretched turkey!" he cried. "Oh, you're the boy who changed baskets with me, are you? Lucky your address was on that basket. And here's the infant, the beloved baby. If you've not treated it well I'll prosecute you for kidnapping!"

"I say," cried Bob, at last finding his wits, "leave that basket and the baby too! I know all about you. It's you that's the kidnaper! Help! Police! Po-o-o-ugh-gr-r!"

He hardly got out one yell before the man was upon him with a furious bound, almost choking the breath out of him.

"Do that again," he growled, "and I'll kill you!" And he threw the boy into a corner and darted out of the house with the baby, locking the door from the outside.

Bob picked himself up from the floor and tried the door. It yielded nothing. Then he got a chair and pulled himself up to the transom.

In a second he was through it, hatless, dusty, choked and panting, but thirsting for revenge. Down the stairs he leaped, three at a time.

Up the street, unmindful of other boys, he darted. Half a block down the avenue he saw a street car plunging along, and on the rear platform stood the kidnaper with the wrapped up baby in his arms. Bob had not a cent for car fare, but he dashed after the car as if he owned the street.

The car gained on him in spite of all effort, but the man did not seem to have observed him. At last it shot out of sight, but Bob did not falter. He was not far from the ferry, where the car stopped.

The boy got there, almost exhausted, but determined still. A ferryboat was just going out. Regardless of a big policeman and a ticket seller, he darted past them on to the pier and down planks like a bullet, with the policeman behind him on an elephantine charge, and caught the boat just as it was beginning to move from the slip.

Now, who should be on the boat but Mr. Ray himself, just going home after a hurried visit to police headquarters. Bob's desperate spring for the deck had made him an object of general attention, and his cry of "That man's a kidnaper!" diverted it to the man with the baby in his arms.

Seeing himself detected, the man, still holding the child, sprang from the rear of the boat into the water. Bob unhesitatingly sprang after him. On the deck everything was in confusion on the instant, and Mr. Ray's voice in tones of strong emotion, dominating the babel, had such an effect that the wheels were stopped, the baby and Bob rescued and the kidnaper hauled on board the police boat, which appeared among a crowd of others. Bob is now one of Mr. Ray's most trusted and best paid salesmen, and the whole family have an indefinite prospect of turkey dinners on every Thanksgiving day to come.—Philadelphia Inquirer.

A "TURKEY DRUNK."

An Old Time Thanksgiving Custom Which is Happily Now Obsolete.

"I remember when I was a boy that one of the great features of Thanksgiving time was what we called the 'turkey drunk,'" says a native of western New York. "Folks didn't seem to kill their Thanksgiving turkey in those days until the forenoon of the day it was to be eaten, and it was the custom to get the bird most gloriously drunk and kill it while it was in that condition. They used to say that it made the turkey's last moments on earth happy and made its approaching death a matter of unconcern to the bird. More than that, it was believed that the brandy they filled the turkey up with gave the meat a flavor that no bird that died sober could ever have. I don't know whether that was so, but I do know that I can't get any turkey nowadays that has the peculiarly delicious flavor those brandy soaked birds of my beloved boyhood had. The turkey drunk was a great occasion. It was witnessed by the whole family and all the invited guests, if there were any. Two hours before killing the turkey the head of the family would fill a teacup or a tin cup or sometimes a small gourd with brandy. This he would take out to the poultry yard where the turkey which was to provide the Thanksgiving dinner would be cooped up by itself in one corner and place it on the ground in front of the turkey. Those fowls appeared to be fond of brandy, and the doomed bird would gobble up the intoxicating liquor with the relish of a confirmed old toper. Sometimes a particularly large and fat turkey would drink the entire contents of the cup.

"As soon as the bird was through drinking it would be let out of its coop, and in less than three minutes it would be staggering about the yard with as elegant a jig on as any rounder ever enjoyed. If the victim was a gobbler his efforts to maintain his dignity under the influence of his load were as funny as a circus clown's. Steadying himself by an effort, he would throw his head up, thrust his chest out, lower his wings till they dragged on the ground and then try to strut among his hens with the domineering pomposity of his sober days. His strut invariably ended in his falling ignominiously on his nose, and his struggles to regain his equilibrium were equal to the drunken gymnastics of Toodles.

"The exhibition of the intoxicated gobbler made of himself created unmistakable surprise, if not disgust, in his harem, and the hens would draw apart in groups and watch the antics of their lord in shocked silence. The turkey never failed to get drunker and drunker and at last would totter and fall and give up to the influence of the liquor. Then was the time to kill the bird, and its head was cut off while the turkey was in its stupor. That custom is fortunately obsolete now. I don't think it would be a very inspiring sight for one to witness nowadays, but in the old times the stiffest teetotaler didn't seem to see anything wrong in making the Thanksgiving turkey drunk. I suppose that would come under the head of cruelty to animals now. At any rate, it should."

GRAND LARCENY

Is the Charge Against an Indianapolis Councilman.

Indianapolis, Nov. 24.—Councilman John F. Wood has arranged to give $1,000 bond under an indictment returned by the Marion county grand jury, charging Wood with grand larceny in connection with the sale of a lot in the Irvington Land company's plat to a former member of the Indianapolis police force.

Wood has denied that he is personally responsible for losses sustained by persons who purchased lots from the Irvington Land company, which he promoted, but which failed to deliver lots.

Illinois Capital For Sane Fourth.

Springfield, Ill., Nov. 24.—The city council has gone on record for a "safe and sane" Fourth of July. Resolutions declaring against the use of dangerous explosives and firearms were adopted and a committee was appointed to confer with dealers in fireworks to obtain their co-operation. The council will ask dealers to refrain from stocking up with fireworks such as are condemned as dangerous.

A Valuable Booklet Free

Any person who will call at A. J. Pellens' Drug store will be given a little booklet written by an eminent authority. Every family has one or more people who have eczema, pimples, dandruff, ring worm, tetter, prickly heat, hives or some form of skin or scalp disease. This booklet is written in such a plain, simple manner that any person after a perusal of it can tell what is the matter with them and can at once proceed to get a simple home treatment that will destroy the germ life that causes the disease, and in this way effect a complete cure of any form of skin disease.

HAD A WALK-AWAY

Moxley Elected by Big Plurality to Succeed Lorimer.

Chicago, Nov. 24.—William J. Moxley was elected to congress in the Sixth district to succeed William Lorimer. He won on a platform pledging him to support Speaker Cannon and stand by the Aldrich tariff law.

WILLIAM J. MOXLEY.

Moxley won by a plurality of 6,277 over Barnes, Independent, and Ryan, Democrat. The total vote was: Moxley, 14,494; Ryan, 6,414; Barnes, 8,317.

Mrs. Louis Hite, 428 Outlen street, Danville, Ill., writes, Oct. 1st: "Foley's Kidney Pills started me on the road to health. I was treated by four doctors and took other kidney remedies but grew worse, and was unable to do my housework, and the doctor told me I only could live from two to six months. I am now so much better that I do all of my own work, and I shall be very glad to tell any one afflicted with kidney or bladder trouble the good results I received from taking Foley's Kidney Pills."

Thanksgiving Conundrums.

Here is a collection of conundrums which may be served up while the turkey is being served on Thanksgiving day:

What part of the turkey assists my lady in making her toilet? Comb.

What part of the turkey opens the front door? Last part—key.

What part of the turkey will appear on Wednesday, Dec. 1? Bill.

What part of a turkey is part of a sentence? Claws (clause).

What part of a turkey is used for cleaning purposes? Wings (for dust-ers).

What part of a turkey does the farmer watch with anxiety? The crop.

Why is the man who eats too fast like a turkey? Both are gobblers.

What part of the turkey is an oriental? The first part—Turk.

Why ought the turkey to be ashamed when he is being served? Because we see the turkey dressing.

What color gets its name from the turkey? Turkey red.

When the turkey is cooking, in what country is he? In Greece.

What Would You Do?

In a case of burn or scald what would you do to relieve the pain? Such injuries are liable to occur in any family and everyone should be prepared for them. Chamberlain's Salve applied on a soft cloth will relieve the pain almost instantly, and unless the injury is a very severe one, will cause the parts to heal without leaving a scar. For sale by C. W. Milhous.

Both Making Good Recovery.

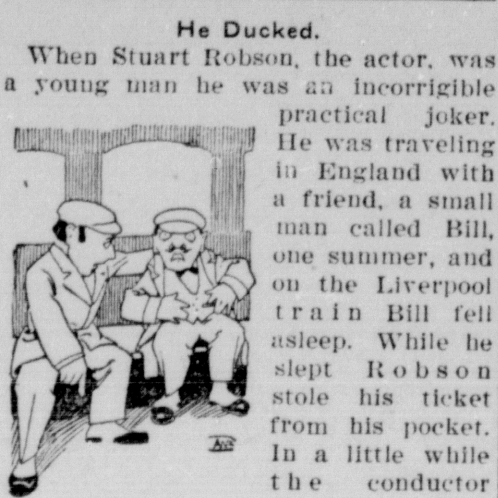

New Albany, Ind., Nov. 24.—J. K. Woodward, president of the Merchants' National bank of New Albany, and James Tucker, the negro chauffeur, who were shot by Tom Hoal, the dime novel bank robber, are now considered out of danger.

A Methodist Minister Recommends

Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy.

"I have used Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy for diarrhoea. I consider it the best remedy I ever tried for that trouble. I bought a bottle of it a few days ago from our druggist, Mr. R. R. Brooks. I shall ever be glad to speak a word in its praise when I have the opportunity."—REV. J. D. KNAPP, Pastor M. E. Church, Miles Grove, Pa. Sold by C. W. Milhous.

Scrap Book

He Ducked. When Stuart Robson, the actor, was a young man he was an incorrigible practical joker. He was traveling in England with a friend, a small man called Bill, one summer, and on the Liverpool train Bill fell asleep. While he slept Robson stole his ticket from his pocket. In a little while the conductor was to be seen approaching.

"Tickets, Bill! Get out your ticket!" Robson said. Bill, after a frantic search, said, with an oath, that his ticket was lost. Robson then advised him to escape paying by hiding under the seat. This Bill decided to do, and when the conductor appeared he lay on his back on the dusty floor quite invisible.

Robson surrendered both tickets, whereupon the conductor said: "Here are two tickets. Where is your friend, sir?"

"Under the seat crawled awkwardly there," the actor answered. "I don't know why he wanted to avoid you."

The conductor, surprised, looked under the seat, and Bill, with a look of mingled rage and chagrin that changed to a sickly smile as he caught sight of Robson's face, crawled awkwardly forth.

What There's Time For. Lots of time for lots of things. Though it's said that time has wings; There is always time to find Ways of being sweet and kind. There is always time to share Smiles and goodness everywhere; Time to send the frowns away, Time a gentle word to say, Time for helpfulness and time To assist the weak to climb, Time to give a little flower, Time for friendship any hour, But there is no time to spare For unkindness anywhere.

—Frank Walcott Hutt.

Got Better All the Time.

A party of tourists were doing Boston and Cambridge. Said one: "So this is the cemetery where they say James Russell Lowell as a small boy went out one Halloween night to look for ghosts. I wonder which stone he was hiding behind and if he really did see a ghost."

"I can't tell you, ma'am," answered the guide, "but over here lies a man who had three wives. On the stone of the first one he had inscribed, 'My Wife,' on the stone of the second, 'My Dear Wife,' and on that of the third, 'My Beloved Wife.' If any ghosts try walking around here it ought to be that first wife."

Needed a Bracer. A Louisville family, whereof a number are young girls, recently entertained a cousin who has rarely ventured out of the mountains of the Blue Grass State. One evening there was a dance in honor of the birthday of one of the young ladies, and it was with considerable difficulty that the backward cousin was induced to come "downstairs" and mingle with the gay company there assembled.

About 10 o'clock a certain young lady, observing that the mountaineer had taken no part in the dancing, said:

"Mr. Cummins, aren't you going to dance with me?"

After an embarrassed pause the visitor said, "I will if you'll excuse me for a few minutes so that I can get about six drinks."

"Heavens!" exclaimed the girl, dumfounded by this extraordinary condition thus imposed.

"I beg your pardon," returned the mountaineer, agast at the effect he had produced, "but the truth is that I never have any confidence in my dancing until I've five or six whiskies."—Lippincott's.

Burn Your Own Smoke. The first lesson of life is to burn our own smoke—that is, not to inflict on outsiders our personal sorrows and petty morbidness, not to keep thinking of ourselves as exceptional cases.

—James Russell Lowell.

Still in the Dark. As every lawyer knows, Senator Daniel is the author of a comprehensive treatise on negotiable instruments which is generally considered to be the leading authority on the subject. A friend one day inquired how it was that in the midst of his arduous political duties, which must have demanded his constant attention, he found time to write two such exhaustive volumes.

"Well," replied the senator, "it happened this way: A young fellow I knew came to me one day and said, 'Say, Mr. Daniel, does a sight draft bear interest? And—would you believe it?—I couldn't answer that simple question. So I determined then and there to find out all about it. It took me a long time, but I did it.'"

"Well, senator," observed the friend after a short pause, "does a sight draft bear interest?"

There was a moment's silence. "Hanged if I know!" was the abrupt reply.

CANNON'S FOE FIXING FOR HIM

Victor Murdock Already Planning His Campaign.

HE IS CHOKED FULL OF IDEAS

Just What the Insurgents Will Do to Your Uncle Joseph When They Get Lined Up Again in Washington Will Be Plenty, to Hear the Most Enthusiastic of Them Tell It—Among the Things Murdock Expects to See
Done is Cannon's Resignation at the Request of His Friends Who Wish to Save the Party's Face.

Washington, Nov. 24.—Representative Victor Murdock of Kansas, the best-known insurgent in the house and the man who led the first real fight against Joseph G. Cannon, has reached Washington. Mr. Murdock is full of ideas for the campaign, which he expects the insurgents to wage at the coming session, and looks as if he were anxious for the battle. Among the things which Mr. Murdock said he expected to see are: The resignation of Cannon from the speakership either at the request of Republican friends who wish to save the party's face, or through a petition from a majority of the house; the radical changes in the rules which will do away with the "system's" present power, and the enactment of some important legislation. "Uncle Joe," said Mr. Murdock, "is westward of his zenith and is still on the decline. Before the end of the coming session I expect to see some of his friends go to Cannon and inform him gently that he should resign. I can imagine some of the majority relishing that task. There is no doubt that Cannon has become more of an issue than ever. The country generally is becoming aroused over the situation in the house and is getting to realize that not only is the 'system' bad, but that Cannon's personal habit in ruling is bad, too."

VICTOR MURDOCK.

TOBACCO CIRCLES GREATLY STIRRED

Court's Decision May Dissolve
the Present Pool.

Lexington, Ky., Nov. 24.—Judge James M. Benton, in the circuit court at Winchester, sustained the prayer of J. E. Gaitskill and other tobacco growers of central Kentucky and granted the motion of the plaintiffs for a receiver for the Burley Tobacco Society. The court held that the society had no legal right to use the money accruing from the pools of the 1906 and 1907 crops to further the interests of the pool this year, as the pool this year was a separate and distinct organization from the pool of other years.

Clarence Lebus, president of the Burley society, refused to discuss the action, but Colonel J. R. Allen, chief counsel for the society, stated that the decision would be appealed. The action of the court created a sensation in tobacco circles in Lexington and central Kentucky, and in some quarters it is believed the decision of Judge Benton will result in a dissolution of the pool.

Silent Lies.

There are silent lies in addition to those spoken aloud. And these are equally despicable. Living a lie, turning life into a deceptive machine, is not only demoralizing, but it is always a confession of weakness. The strong, balanced mind does not resort to subterfuge. It can afford to be transparent, open, because it is conscious of strength and does not need to hide anything. Great minds are open to the light, with no dark corners. With them nothing is hidden or veiled. Everybody is afraid of the opaque mind—the mind that acts in the dark, underground. Nobody trusts the man who is always covering his tracks. We all love a transparent mind.—Exchange.

Croup Cured and a Child's Life Saved.

"It affords me great pleasure to add my testimony to that of the thousands who have been benefited by Chamberlain's Cough Remedy. My child, Andrew, when only three years old, was taken with a severe attack of croup, and thanks to the prompt use of Chamberlain's Cough Remedy his life was saved and today he is a robust and healthy boy," says Mrs. A. Coy, Jr., of San Antonio, Texas. This remedy has been in use for many years. Thousands of mothers keep it at hand and it has never been known to fail. For sale by C. W. Milhous.

Her Thanksgiving.

Oh, have you got the turkey picked, and is the oven hot
And ready for the pumpkin pies?
I'll have to bake a lot,
And currant cakes and ginger snaps,
Of each a heaping tray.
Our boys and girls are coming home
To spend Thanksgiving day.

I'll make some sugar cookies too.
They used to like them so
When they were little toddling things.
It seems so long ago!
And apple tarts for daughter Jane
With eyes of tender gray.
She's bringing both her babies home
To spend Thanksgiving day.

I rose before the peep of dawn,
I had so much to do,
But never have I felt so spry,
Though I am sixty-two.
To cook and bake and boil and brew
Seems only just like play
With all the dear ones coming home
To spend Thanksgiving day.

I thank the Lord who gives to us
The sunshine and the rain
That here in one unbroken band
I see them once again—
Our children and their children, too,
All hastening to obey
The voice of love that calls them home
To spend Thanksgiving day.
—Minna Irving.

HER THANKSGIVING DINNER

YOUNG Mrs. John Vincent Harris approached the butcher's block timidly.

"How do you do, Mr. Butcher? Please wait on me. I don't know what I want exactly. I want something for a Thanksgiving dinner. No—that is, I don't think I want a turkey unless—perhaps you have one ready filled. Either chestnuts or oysters would do. You haven't? Then I think I won't take a turkey. These all look so—so difficult.

"You see, my husband—the word comes with difficulty—"has asked his family to take their first meal—I mean they are to dine with us for the first time since we went to housekeeping, so I want everything to look as if I were accustomed to it. No, I am not used to such a large family, and you must help me to calculate. There are his father, mother, the girls and a son-in-law. You see, Alice, the second daughter, was married in an auto car, but maybe you don't care for romantic marriages.

"I asked Mr. John Vincent Harris when he kissed—that is, when he left me this morning what I should buy, and he said to get—I declare, I believe I've forgotten! Oh, yes, now I know. He spoke of a bird and a bottle. Have you any birds in bottles? No? That's too bad. And after I had been so careful to remember too! Perhaps a duck would be nice, only ducks have such homely feet. No, I just couldn't serve a duck to his family. Why, all his sisters are so proud of their feet and wear French heels. There are five of them—sisters, I mean—and they will all be there. I almost wish I could have married a man with half as many sisters. Why, how funny! Then there'd be two and a half sisters, and that's not possible, you know.

"Of course I must not keep you waiting. I don't really mean to monopolize your time, but—Oh, dear! What shall I get? I guess you may send me a squib—that's a young dove, you know. I ate one at a restaurant once just after I was engaged. That's quite awhile ago, because we've been married ever so long. You just ought to see my presents. I've got them all spread out and—What? You don't think a squib—squab, I said—will be large enough? Well, maybe not.

"What shall I get? Let me see. Geese! Yes, you may send me three geese—not too small. Please be sure to cover their feet, and—no, you need not dress them, because I don't want to make you extra work, and you know I'd have to undress them before I baked them. And, please, Mr. Butcher, see that their eyes are closed, for I never could have the heart to put them into the oven if they were looking at me.

"Thank you. You have been so kind that I have a notion to tell you a secret. Yes, I will. This is my first experience at a meat store. Yes, I think I've done pretty well. I am afraid I did fib just a little to you about being married a long time, because, really, you know I haven't. Why, how did you guess it? We have just got back from our trip to Niagara.

"No, I won't keep you any longer. By the way, I shall want a few pounds of gimlets—no, giblets—for gravy, so please send them. Don't forget about closing the eyes. Thank you. Good day."

She returns hastily. "Oh, I nearly forgot to order salt pork. Mr. John Vincent Harris is so fond of it for breakfast. Please don't send any fat with it, because we are not Jack Spratt and his wife. What? No, they are not neighbors. I thought you might know them. No, they don't trade here. Now, don't forget the things I've told you. Good day."—Chicago News.

Surprise Party.

With a deftness acquired by long and patient practice the pickpocket extracted an old but well filled wallet from the hip pocket of the unsuspecting old gentleman with the beaming countenance against whom he had carelessly brushed when leaving the street car, and on reaching a secluded place he opened it.

The contents had been wrapped with great care in numerous thicknesses of blank paper. Removing the wrappings one by one he found in the center of the package a card with this inscription upon it:
"Young man, give up your career of crime! Nothing in it!"—Chicago Tribune.

A LINCOLN YARN.

Why Abe Likened Himself to the Boy Without Gingerbread.

A group of Lincoln's cronies were in his law office once swapping experiences, spinning yarns and comparing notes on life as they found it. They drifted to the subject of romance and sentiment in life, and the talk at last centered on the bliss of love-making, of "courting" girls and feeling that you made them fall in love with you by your superior charms. Finally some one of the party asked Lincoln for his personal views on the subject.

Abe straightened out his lank and ungainly frame, and a quizzical smile stole across his exceedingly homely face.

"Gentlemen," he drawled, "I reckon I ain't fully qualified to discuss that point with any great authority. In fact, gentlemen, it reminds me of the story of the poor little country boy who saw another and more fortunate boy eating a big piece of gingerbread. He begged and pleaded with the other boy for at least one bite of the gingerbread, but all in vain, and at last was found sitting alone on a dry goods box, following the departure of the other boy and the gingerbread, weeping bitterly.

"What's the matter, sonny?" asked the man who found him.

"Thereupon the crying boy told of his melancholy experience in so vainly begging for just one bite of the other boy's gingerbread.

"I reckon I like gingerbread better'n any other boy in all the world," he sobbed in conclusion, "and it certainly do seem to me that I get less of it than any other boy in all the world."

"That, gentlemen," said Abe Lincoln, "is about my position on this question of the joys of courting a girl and feeling that you're so charming she just can't resist you. I love it better'n any of you, I reckon, and I get less of it."

Real Tact.

Tact means thinking about others. It means considering what others will think instead of considering only what we think ourselves. It means acting in concert with others instead of acting only for ourselves. Real tact is unselfishness in action, and that is why it gains so much and wins so many hearts.

A Fair Offer.

How earnest some of the cheap New York gamblers can become was shown by a story told the other night by a New York politician, who, in company with other Gotham politicians and sporting men, journeyed to Philadelphia on a special train to witness a bout in one of the local boxing clubs.

It appears that one of the cheap gamblers, who also dabbles in the pickpocket line on the side, boarded

"I'LL BET YOU A GOLD WATCH," the train in Jersey City and tried to stir up some betting enthusiasm by confidentially telling members of the party that the "Kid" would win the fight. When he approached the politician who told the story the latter cast doubt on the "Kid's" fist ability upon that particular occasion.

"Why, the 'Kid' is sure to lick that other guy. I'll bet you a gold watch he does," confidently asserted the gambler.

The politician remained skeptical, and the gambler-pickpocket exclaimed: "Look here, I'll bet you a gold watch—the best one on this train—that the 'Kid' wins, and you can come through the cars with me now and pick out the watch."

Stories of Charles Lamb.

An old lady who was fond of her dis-senting minister once wearied Lamb by the length of her praises. "I speak because I know him well," said she. "Well, I don't—I don't. But d-n him at a venture!"

On another occasion Lamb was invited to a party where the room was crowded with children. Their noise and tricks plagued him not a little, and at supper, when toasts were flying to an fro, he rose to propose the health of the "m-much ca-ca-calumnated g-good King Herod!"

The Bargain.

"One day last summer," said a fond father, "my two little sons were playing circus. To please them I joined them in the garden. They were selling circus lemonade.

"Here y'are! Fine pink lemonade! Only 2 cents a glass!" Tommy shouted.

"Here y'are!" cried his younger brother. "Fresh lemonade! All you can drink for a cent!"

"I sampled each merchant's beverage. The penny lemonade seemed quite as good as the dearer sort. In fact, it seemed almost better. I drank three glasses of it. Then I said:

"Why is your lemonade, Harry, cheaper than your brother's? It's just as good."

"Of course it's just as good," said Harry, "only the cat fell in it."

A Fashion Chat on Gowns.

from this design and the gown may also be of taffeta, messaline or woolen goods in any fashionable shade.

The military effect is given No. 3284 by the tucks and button trimming. Sleeve-caps may be substituted for the two-seam leg-o-mutton sleeves used in this instance, in which case undersleeves of muslin or net in the same color as the dress might be used. This design might be reproduced in brown silk jersey, with the plaited flounce of plaid silk, and with sleeve-caps; undersleeves of crepe chiffon of the same shade with elbow puffs and Egyptian banding, and the banding also applied in some pretty fashion on the body part. Pictorial Review pattern No. 3284 is in sizes 32, 34, 36, 38 and 40 inches bust measure. 36-inch size requires 6½ yards of 45-inch material, or 11¼ yards of 27-inch material. Costume No. 3279 is an attractive model developed in catwalk cashmere de soie and trimmed with black braided bands. It trims the front and back of the model, simulating the elongated waist-line, the skirt above the plaits, and also the sleeve-caps. The bodice is in form-fitted effect, the trimming outlining a panel in the front and back; three tucks across the upper part of the panel, front and back, give a pretty style to the garment. A lace guimpe is worn with this dress, the sleeves of which are puffed, with deep cuffs, lace trimmed. The sleeves of the cloth are slashed, in cap style, and braided trimmed. The skirt is made with side plaits all around. Pictorial Review pattern of this costume are in sizes 32, 34, 36, 38 and 40 inches bust measure, and size 36 requires about 6½ yards of 42-inch material and about 8 yards of trimming.

Wide-wale diagonal in a combination of green and gray tones would be charming for demonstrating the first one at the top. The long, straight lines give distinction to a good figure, and the neck may be high, if the yoke top is desired. With the neck cut away and yoke omitted a guimpe may be worn—having sleeves if the sleeve-caps included in the pattern are substituted for the leg-o-mutton sleeves shown. The sides of the body extending in points on the side-plaited skirt sections give the Moynage suggestion, and the panel front and back are becoming to almost every type of figure.

This mode would take braided trimming very nicely, particularly if made of plain material. Soutache is used in combination with wider braid, sometimes two or three widths, and it is made into pretty ornaments with fancy stitches worked in embroidery silk. Jewels, sequins, metal threads and bits of cloth of gold or silver guaze may be worked into an elaborate design for trimming a frock of crepe de Chine, charmeuse, moire or chiffon. Pictorial Review pattern No. 3289 may be had in sizes 32, 34, 36, 38 and 40 inches bust. Size 36 needs about 7 yards of 45-inch goods.

No. 3287 is a smart design for a dress to be worn with a separate guimpe. Willow-green silk cashmere was the selection for this development, with a darker shade of green velvet for adornment, and the plaiting at the foot is of the cashmere. The bretelles and slashes in front and back that the pattern provides for are optional. Pictorial Review pattern for the model are in sizes 32, 34, 36, 38 and 40 inches bust measure. Size 36 calls for about 11 yards of material 27 inches wide, or 7½ yards 40 inches wide. Patterns of the above numbers, including cutting and construction guides, are 15 cents each number.

ABE'S THANKSGIVING PUDDING

The Tidbit That Delighted a Black Boy's Heart.

"Granny, is Thanksgiving day for us poor colored pussons as well as for de rich ladies you wash fur?"

"Why, Abe Lincoln, chile, what is you talkin' about? Hab I done brung you up to ask sich fool questions? Don't de good Lord say as how we mus' be thankful for our marbles every day?" answered the old woman, looking up from her ironing board at her small grandson, who was paring potatoes by the stove.

"But, granny, you said as we be too poor for any sort o' puddin', and ef we got cabbage an' bakin dat's all we might 'nect, an' I do lub a puddin' mighty well." And Abe seemed ready to set up a wall of sorrow.

"It am a fearful sin to lub a puddin'. De good book says you mus' lub your enemies, boy, but I don't gib us no 'couragement to keef fur things fur our stomach," granny replied severely.

"I ain't got no enemies to lub 'cept dey is de boys on de nex' street dat calls me 'de bowlegged nigger kid,' an' I can't lub 'em as much as a puddin' nohow. I do so want real bad de sort Miss Gray done sent me las Kismus when I broke my leg."

"Plum puddin'! Well, you air mighty 'bitious to want dat, but you keep on with your potatoes, an' granny will see what she kin do," declared she more kindly as she stared at her crippled little grandson, the last one left of her once large family. "I'll done gib Abe Lincoln a spree," she thought as with a flash of joy she called to mind a pudding of the old time.

And this is the pudding that delighted little Abe's heart on Thanksgiving and made him feel as if he, too, participated in the feasts and good things of the day:

Cut up two cups of bread fine, half a cup of chopped suet, half a cup of molasses, one egg, one cup of raisins, one cup of sweet milk 'n which half a teaspoonful of soda is dissolved, half a teaspoonful of cloves, one teaspoonful of cinnamon, a pinch of mace and salt. Boil two hours in a tin pudding boiler. Eat with foaming sauce, which is made thus: Beat half a cup of butter to a cream, add one cup of granulated sugar and stir until it is white and foaming. Just before serving pour on one cup of boiling water and stir a moment.—Christian Work.

Our Thanksgiving Pie.

Oh, pumpkin, smiling on the vine,
A wee, a wee, a handsome fellow!
But listen to these words of mine
Which I'm about to tell, oh!

"All, all is vanity, I trow,"
Thus truly saith the preacher,
And vanity is lurking now
In every pumpkin feature.

I grant thou hast a mellow cheek
And very fairly rounded,
But on that happy fact this week
Thy downfall will be founded.

Since thou'rt so handsome on the vine
(Which well I can't deny, oh!),
Methinks thou sure wilt look divine
In our Thanksgiving pie, oh!

—Elsie Parrish.

While James H. Beard, the artist, was painting a portrait of Zachary Taylor he said to him, "Well, general, I suppose you are to be our next president?"

"I hope not," grunted the bluff old hero. "No military man has any business in the presidential chair, but if they offer it to me I suppose I'll be fool enough to accept it."

SHOCKING DEATH

Congressman DeArmond and Grandson Fatally Burned.

Kansas City, Nov. 24.—Representative David A. DeArmond, one of the leading Democratic members of congress, and his grandson, Waddie DeArmond, aged six years, were burned to death in a fire that destroyed the DeArmond home at Butler, Mo.

It is believed that Mr. DeArmond sacrificed his life in a heroic effort to save his grandson. It is thought he was aroused in time to save himself, but that in awakening the boy and attempting to carry him from danger he became confused in the smoke, which was momentarily growing denser, and was overcome before he was able to find the way out.

Mr. Taft Extends Sympathy.
Washington, Nov. 24.—President Taft was shocked by the death of Representative DeArmond. Mr. DeArmond was a member of the "Taft party" which went to the Philippines several years ago. The president sent the following telegram to Mrs. DeArmond: "Mrs. Taft and I are shocked to hear the dreadful news. We sympathize deeply with you in your sorrow. Your husband and I were very intimate. I value his friendship highly. He was an earnest, able servant of the people and a patriot. My heart goes out to you in your loss."

From All the Information That Could Be Elicited Regarding the First Meeting of the President's Advisers Since His Return, It Might Have Been, So Far as the Public Is Advised, Some Such Innocent Diversion Occupying the Time of the Nation's Pillars of State—Unusual Secrecy Attends a Three-Hours' Conference.

Washington, Nov. 24.—From the president himself to the third assistant secretaries of departments, or from any person connected directly, indirectly, inferentially or momentarily with the cabinet of President Taft to say what occurred at the meeting yesterday, is the thought most remote. Of course the session lasted only three hours and there were but a few important matters, such as the selection of an associate justice of the supreme court, the Standard Oil decision, the Nicaraguan affair, the president's forthcoming message, the proposed amendments to the Sherman anti-trust law, and the interstate commerce act that might have come up. True, the naming of an assistant secretary of the treasury, an assistant secretary of the department of commerce and labor, a surveyor of the port of New York, a first assistant postmaster general could have been considered, but then, no matter.

One by one the cabinet officers came out from the cabinet room. Secretary Knox said there had not been any talk of the Nicaraguan dispute, Secretary Meyer and Secretary Dickinson affirming; Secretary MacVeagh said there had not been any talk about the sugar trust case. Secretary Wickesham said the Standard Oil decision had not come up; Secretary Nagel said appointments were not considered. Secretary Ballinger said he had not asked for the dismissal of Gifford Pinchot or proffered his own resignation.

Nobody asked about the "Roosevelt conspiracy" and the return from Elba. The postmaster general hurried out while the hungry newsgatherers were busy telephoning the important cabinet news to their offices, so nobody saw him. Secretary Wilson, everybody knew, had not talked about agriculture, because there are no boll weevils or cattle diseases. Secretary Carpenter was asked later in the day what was under discussion and he in turn asked Mr. Taft. When Mr. Carpenter came out he said that there was not anything that could be said about the meeting. Probably marbles or pingpong was played. It was a gloomy day outside, anyhow, and three hours' recreation would make new men of everyone there.

Bendernagel Asks Leave to Inspect Minutes of Grand Jury.

New York, Nov. 24.—A motion was filed today by Henry F. Cochrane, counsel for James F. Bendernagel, former superintendent of the American Sugar company at the Williamsburg refinery, under indictment for conspiracy to defraud the government on sugar importations, for leave to inspect the minutes of the grand jury and to quash the indictment on the ground that it is founded on incompetent testimony.

Bendernagel's affidavit says the indictment does not allege the commission by him of any overt act. It also states that he was subpoenaed three times to appear before the federal grand jury in Brooklyn to testify concerning matters which have been the subject of inquiry and investigation in this district and that the books and memoranda kept by him in the course of his official duties have been used together with the testimony previously given by him in finding the blanket indictment against him and those with whom he is accused of conspiring. Wherefore, the affidavit asserts, the indictment is in violation of Bendernagel's constitutional rights because he was compelled to be a witness against himself in a criminal proceeding.

Hazers Not Released From Judgment.

Kewanee, Ill., Nov. 24.—Judge Green, in the Stark county circuit court, has held that the settlement of the Stoner hazing case for $800, authorized by the county court after the Stoner boy had been given a verdict of $14,000 against eight wealthy Bradford youths who tied him to a tombstone, which fell on him, breaking his leg, cannot now be made, as the lower court had no jurisdiction when the case was pending in the circuit court.

Baby Victim of Nurse's Blunder.

Springfield, Ill., Nov. 24.—An application of arsenic instead of talcum powder to the body of the infant daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Davis of Salisbury caused its death. Two applications of arsenic were made before the error was discovered.

GIVEN UP

Hope of Saving Any More Miners at Cherry Abandoned.

Cherry, Ill., Nov. 24.—From the St. Paul colliery here no more miners have been rescued alive and no more bodies have been recovered. Hope of saving the lives of the men yet entombed has been practically given up. The excitement among the survivors has quieted down, and the removal of troops has begun. Governor Deneen ordering Company C of the Sixth infantry, of Galesburg, to return home. This leaves only Company K, Sixth infantry, of Kewanee, at Cherry. Governor Deneen has also relieved from duty Richard Newham, president of the state mining board, who has become worn out with his long and exacting duties; and placed in charge temporarily Hector McAllister, a member of the board.

The state mining inspectors and the coal company's officials have admitted for the first time publicly that there is little hope that any of the 156 miners who have been entombed ten days are still alive. W. W. Taylor, the mine's manager; Duncan McDonald, president of the miners, and Superintendent Powell also agree that none of the entombed men in either the second or third veins is now alive. Fire which began again near the main shaft prevents the work of clearing the tunnels. The entire mine will be in danger and all efforts to recover the bodies of the entombed men will be finally blocked if this fire is not soon controlled.

FEARS FOR ASTOR WERE UNFOUNDED

Millionaire Is Safe and Sound In Porto Rico.

New York, Nov. 24.—Captain James Dalton and the officers of the insular line steamship Harry Luckenbach, in from Porto Rico, have just confirmed the report of Captain Furst of the Red D liner Caracas that he had left Col. J. J. Astor's yacht, the Nourmahal, in the harbor of San Juan on November 15th. Captain Dalton and his chief engineer, A. L. Emery, dispelled all doubt as to the safety of the Nourmahal by declaring that when the Luckenbach sailed from San Juan on Wednesday, last, two days after Captain Furst had seen the Nourmahal, she was still at anchor off San Juan and showing no evidences of having encountered rough weather on her trip from San Domingo. Chief Engineer Emery was formerly an assistant engineer aboard the Nourmahal, so there is no doubt about his ability to identify her even if Captain Dalton might have any doubts about her. Col. Astor himself knew nothing of the anxiety he had unintentionally caused his friends in New York.

He Mentioned No Storm.

New York, Nov. 24.—Letters written on Nov. 14 by Colonel John Jacob Astor on the stationery of the yacht Nourmahal have arrived from San Juan by the insular line steamship Harry Luckenbach. They were addressed to the secretary of his estate, William A. Dobbyn, and were exclusively of a business nature. The tone of the letters indicated that Colonel Astor was not aware that there had been any apprehension about the Nourmahal. He mentioned no storm.

HAD HIS FINGER PRINTS

Mysterious Insane Patient at Washington Positively Identified.

Washington, Nov. 24.—The Washington police have positively identified the unknown man who was taken into custody several days ago and is now at the Washington asylum for the insane. The identification was accomplished by his finger-print records, which were taken by the police and sent to the headquarters of the army, the navy and the marine corps for comparison with their finger-print records. By this means it was discovered that the finger-prints of the patient were identical with those of a sailor on board the ship Virginia, which is undergoing repairs at the Norfolk navy yard. A telegram was sent to the commanding officer of the Virginia to ascertain if this sailor is missing from his vessel. The unidentified patient shows a perfect understanding of his whereabouts and of his condition, but cannot recollect any conditions of his past life. He denies having served either in the army or navy.
